BEEF ON THE HOOF.

The Senate Kills the Beef Inspection Bill.

Legisintive Notes.

The beef inspection bill was brought up in the senate the other day, and killed by a vote of 10 to 19. We give a brief resume of the discussion:

Senator Holbrook asserted that as a saultary measure and as a protective measure against the encroaching power of the "big four" of Chicago, he believed the bill a good one. The farmers of Michigan ask its passage and they are earnest in their appeal. The argument of the Senstor was along the line of protection rather than the preservation of the public health, aithough he referred to the liability of diseased meat being sold unless inspection as contemplated by the bill were provided for.

The able young senator from the Cadillac district, Mr. Gidnings, who has more than once during this and the last session distinguished himself as an orator, and tary measure and as a protective measure than once during this and the last session distinguished himself as an orator, and who seldom takes the floor except in opposition to some measure of a general nature, made one of the leading speeches against the bill. He argued that the passage of the bill would necessarily increase the price of beef to the consumer, because the army of inspectors provided for must be paid, and one assumed that this additional expense. no one assumed that this additional expense would be borne alone by the owners of cat-tle. There is not now a sufficient supply within our own state to meet the demand for dressed beef, and the erection of a barrier on the state line, such as is contemplated by the bill, would only make the scarcity and the price greater.

Another reason why the senator opposed the bill was that he did not think any advantage claimed by its advocates would be brought about by its passage. An immense brought about by its passage. An immense alaughter-house on the south-western boundary of the state would be built and western cattle would come in just the same as now. The occasion does not demand such legislation as this. Its principle is bad and contrary to the theory of our government. There is necessity for a national immediate law and such a law the sensor. inspection law and such a law the senator believed would be eminently just.

Regarding the bill a piece of proposed dangerous legislation, and feeling certain that its passage would lead to complications and burdens not now thought of, he appealed to the senators to vote against it.

President Pro Tem. Ball left the chair to advocate the passage of the bill, prefacing his argument with the remark that this is a measure in which the producers (a considmeasure in which the producers (a considerably numerous class) are taking a lively interest. The leading business of Michigan farmers, he said, is cattle raising for dairy purposes, for beef and for improving stock. All understand the necessity of these three branches of the great industry to the proper conduct of the business of farming and the senate should be careful. very careful, not to take action that would destroy the industry. He thought the de-ceat of this bill would go a long way towards bringing about such a lamentable condition. The paid lobbyists of the great beef monopoly could have no other interest in this proposed law than a mercenary interest, and the president pro tem warned his colleagues against being led into opposition to the earnest wishes of the people by the blandishments of such men. There was a suggestion (in of such men. There was a suggestion (in the senator's tone and manner, more than in his words, perhaps) that in his opinion it was not the best kind of politics for the members of his party to vote against the bill and kill it, a result which he seemed to be fully aware was near at hand.

Senator Paimer would apply the Golden Rule to the pending bill and not attempt inter-state legislation, which was against public policy, absolutely void in law, unconstitutional. The people of Michigan, he thought, would do pretty well to legislate concerning their own affairs and keep within their own state. The power behind his bill is the butchers who had by faise arguments and misrepresentations brought orguments and misrepresentations brought to their support a large following of unsus-pecting farmers. When its provisions come to be better understood it would have less and less support—a fact proven by the action taken by the Galway breeders' association of this state in requesting the senate to "kill the bill"

SIX PERSONS KILLED.

A Locomotive Crashes Into a Street Car at Kalamazoo.

men were killed and five injured Six women were killed and five injured in a collision which occurred between a street car and a switch engine on the Michigan Central tracks in Kalamazoo on the evening of May 8. The engine was on its way to aid a freight train at Ostemo, the first station west of there, and had orders to make extra speed. At the same time a street car on the West Main street. line was nearing the track, and the driver, not hearing the warning or seeing the gates lowered, supposed that all was safe and proceeded as usual. While the car was crossing the tracis the engine struck it squarely and carried it several blocks be-fore stopping. At the time there were a dozen persons in the car. Of these five were almost instantly killed. They were:

Miss Gertie Tillotson, about 16 years of age. Mrs. M. E. Wattles, wife of the former Lake Shore superintendent at that place. Mrs. George Smiley, wife of a prominent citizen. Mrs. Alexander Haddock, wife of the professor of mathematics in the Kalamazon. fessor of mathematics in the Kalamazoo Baptist college. Mrs. Van Antwerp. Mrs. Middleton, limbs were broken, died shortly after the accident. Mrs. S. A. Gibson, wife of the owner of the Kalamazoo paper mill, and Mrs. John Barnes were injured. Several others had slight bruises. L. C. Luli escaped without injury, as did the driver and a boy who was on the platform. The driver claims to have seen or heard nothing of the engine until it was upon the car and too late to act. Those who saw the accident state that the speed of the engine was at least twenty two miles an hour, a rate not allowed inside the city limits. It s not definitely known where the blame The gatekeeper states that he is not ired to be at his post from 6 o clock required to be at his post fro until 6:55 as no trains run then.

The Gettysburg Program-

The committee on transportation to and from the Gettysburg battlefield next month met in Lausing a few days ago and prepared the following announcement:

The dedication ceremonies will be held at 10 a. m., June 12, 1886. Gov. Luce and staff, the state officers, the monument comers committees and invited ou will leave Lansing June 10 by a special train over the Lake Shore and Baltimore & Ohio roads for Gettysburg. The Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania Central roads will carry all pa-sengers at reduced rates. Round trip tickets at Lansing will be sold over both lines at one cent a mile-$12.90. From Detroit, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Kalamazoo and all intermediate points at pro rata rates. It is expected that the same rate of one centa mile will be extended to all points in Michigan. This be extended to all points in Michigan. This special rate is not intended for veterans alone all citizens can make use of the privilege. They are cordially invited to go and take part in the celebration. The event is purely of interest to Michigan, since it is held for the dedication of 11 monuments erected on the famous battlefield by the state in honor of its soldiers who fought in the great struggle. The monuments complete and in place cost $20,000. The $5,000 appropriated for transporting Michigan veterans who took part porting Michigan veterans who took part in the battle and are unable to go on their private means will be distributed to them from Gov. Luce by the officers of the regi-mental associations. The details of the distribution will be announced by these officers and veterans are requested to apply to them and not to the governor. Trains will arrive at Gettysburg Tuesday afternoon and evening, remain until Thursday evening, and returning will reach Michigan Friday eve-ning. Welnesday is the dedication day.

A Knife Blade in His Brain.

The other night about 11 o clock, a young man named Otto Samberg, while slightly intoxicated, entered the salcon and bottling works of Jas. The air became filled with dust and sand, which at times would obscure the sun. Late in the afternoon the sky became thick with black clouds, and the deep-toned thunder and frightful flashes of lightning indicated the appearance of some kind of a storm of unusual severity. At times the wind would full as if to gain strength and then break forth with renewed fury.

Men and women who witnessed the oncoming tornado were paralyzed by its awful terrors, while horses and cattle puteously neighed and lowed as they seemed to fully realize their impending doom. This was in the gathering shades of night, but the moon shone through the rifts in the

W. O. Atwater, in charge of the experimental work at agricultural colleges, says that the purpose for which these colleges were established has never been realized. were established has never been realized.

"The colleges do not educate men for the farms," says Atwater; "they go into the professions. The tendency has been to draw young men from the farms instead of fitting them for intelligent farm work."

Mr. Atwater asserts that in most cases the curriculum is too extensive for the average farmer's son, and the expenses are too high.

The Sweetest Girl in School:

"She's the sweetest girl in school"! enthusiastically exclaimed one young miss to another, as they passed down the street together. "Edith is so kind, and gentle and unselfish, everyoneslikes her. And she has lovely golden hair and pretty eyes. Isn't it a pity her complexion is so bad; it spoils her looks. And then she has such dreadful healisches!" The girls skipped along, but it happened Edith!s mother and heard what they said. It set her thinking. What could be done for those headnehes mai the rough, muddy complexion, that was such a trial to her gentle daughter. She recalled what she had read of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and on the spuz of the what she had read of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and on the spur of the moment she slipped into a drug store and bought a supply. Edith took it faithfully, with the result that it cleared her discolored blood, relieved the bandaches, made her skin soft, fair and rosy, and now she is not only the "succetest girl in school," but the most beautiful.
